2007-2008 Season, The Rhino's Thirtieth Anniversary Season: We're thirty! And still going strong! Last year we took you to the edge. This year we'll show you the ropes. Let the most experienced queer theatre on the planet show you how it's done. And while we're on the subject: Where were you when the Rhino came out in 1977? Think about it... We start off the season with a trip down memory lane - thirty years of The Rhino. Our first show is a song and comedy retrospective of the highlights of three decades of queer theatre. Next we offer you a queer classic given the Rhino touch. You loved our productions of Bent and What the Butler Saw, you won't want to miss our latest. Next it's Marga time - join her, her gay comedy friends, and the whole Rhino family to ring in the New Year at The Victoria Theatre. In 2008, the season continues with the Bay Area Premiere of David Mamet's Boston Marriage - a very funny play about queer life. And finally John Fisher's Ishi, about San Francisco's most famous Indian, takes the stage to round out thirty years of gay and lesbian theatre. See pages 2 and 3 for show details.

This season's theme: The ropes... let us show them to you. And... Where were you in 1977? Where were you when the Rhino came out? We want to know. And we'll ask you. Don't be shy. Spend a season learning the ropes and showing us a few of your own. Spend your Thirtieth with The Rhino! One thing you should know: We're called Theatre Rhinoceros because the rhino is a gentle, loving animal... until provoked. That's what we were thinking in 1977.

What about you?

Theatre Rhinoceros' 2007 - 2008 Season

A history of The Rhino onstage, a queer classic, the incomparable Marga Gomez, a Bay Area Premiere and a World Premiere. What more could you want for your thirties?

2007-2008
Thirtieth Anniversary Season
Subscription Series

This year the world's most experienced queer theatre shows you the ropes.

Let us show you how it's done.

Theatre Rhinoceros: The First Thirty Years

September 20 - October 14, 2007

A performance celebration of thirty years of queer theatre at The Rhino.
World Premiere!

TBA Revival of a Queer Classic

November 16 - December 17, 2007

The last three seasons you've given us an overwhelming response to our revivals of queer classics like Bent, What the Butler Saw and Lilies. This year we'll mount another LGBT gem - soon to be announced.

Marga Gomez's New Year's Eve Spectacular

7:00 & 9:00 PM, December 31, 2007

Victoria Theatre

Marga makes her stand-up return to the Bay Area. Last Christmas there were seven weeks of sell-out Cochinas, this year there will be only two Marga shows. These shows will sell out so reserve your tickets today. As a subscriber you will also get preferred seating. Ring in the New Year with the hottest show in town!

Boston Marriage

By David Mamet

February 7 - March 2, 2008

David Mamet as you've never seen him before. Join Anna and Claire and their crazy maid for this same-sex romp. You won't want to miss it when the king of macho insult lets the lesbians outwit the men.

Bay Area Premiere!

Ishi: The Last of the Yahi

Written and Directed by John Fisher

July 3 - 27, 2008

The epic play of San Francisco history. A tale of love, war, and ruthless ambition in the City by the Bay. Professor Alfred Kroeber finds the West's most famous Indian starving in the woods and the two embark on an adventure that will shape the future of California and uncover the secrets of our blood drenched past.
