Theatre Rhinoceros, the longest running LGBT theatre in the country, is moving from 2926 16th Street to 1360 Mission Street (at 9th Street) in the SoMa District of San Francisco. This decision was taken by Executive Director John Fisher and the Board of Theatre Rhinoceros in response to challenges with our former lease and the transitional nature of our former neighborhood. Theatre Rhinoceros is now located in Art House, an office building dedicated to non-profit companies. The Rhino will produce its 2009-2010 Season in new venues around the city. Theatres under consideration are the Eureka Theatre in Jackson Square among others. Theatre Rhinoceros is looking for a new permanent home in either the Castro or the Union Square Districts of San Francisco. Subscribers and patrons should look for our 2009-2010 Season announcement, with all new venue details, in the Fall of 2009.

Our next show, the last of our 2008-2009 Season, is Suzanne Westenhoefer presented at the historical 550-seat Victoria Theatre. The Victoria is located at 2961 Mission Street @ BART. Tickets for Suzanne can be purchased on our website www.TheRhino.org or over the phone on our new 24-hour ticket hotline: (800) 838-3006.

Theatre Rhinoceros (John Fisher, Artistic Director), America's longest running professional LGBT theatre, develops and produces works of theatre that enlighten, enrich, and explore both the ordinary and extraordinary aspects of our queer community.
